This seminar will be held online.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

1. Analyze the historical context of African American/Black men and grief.
2. Describe how African American/Black men respond to grief and loss based on scholarly research.
3. Assess stigma, stereotypes, and cultural beliefs about African American/Black men expressing their emotions as it relates to loss.
4. Describe three ways to be anti-racist and anti-oppressive when supporting, advocating, and/or treating the unique grief reactions exhibited by African American/Black men.

A recording with closed captioning will be available on the STAR Seminar web page at dpbh.ucla.edu/STAR-Seminar.
